

Supplemental Digital Content 1

Effects of allopregnanolone treatment on the motor performance of rats. The rotarod test showed that the latencies to fall from the rod were similar between sham-operated and chronic constriction injury (CCI) rats. Administration of allopregnanolone exerted no effects on latencies to fall at any of the tested doses. Error bars represent mean \pm SD. $n = 6$ rats per group.