

Individual example of force-tendon deformation relationship modeling. Experimental data (black circles) were modeled using exponential equation to fit the theoretical relationship (red line). Force and deformation were normalized with respect to their respective maximal values.